Using Newspapers for Genealogical Research

Thursday, October 18
10 a.m.

Maine State Library
Maine Authors Room

Join B.J. Jamieson to learn about how to use newspapers to find fascinating details of your ancestors' lives. Peggy O'Kane, who oversees digitization projects for the Maine State Library will talk about how newspapers to be digitized are chosen, while Adam Fisher will demonstrate how the library's large newspaper scanner works.

Board of Certification for Genealogists free webinars

Friday, October 19 from 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Remembering World War I:
Share and preserve
your family's history

Saturday, November 3
10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Maine Cultural Building
230 State Street, Augusta

Show and tell for the digital age!

Bring your photos, letters, souvenirs, and other memorabilia to this special event, where they will be scanned and returned to you.

Join the project to build a digital collection of materials that tells the stories of Maine people during World War I.

Next time you are at the Maine State Library, check out the display of the recent genealogy books and periodicals near the microfilm cabinet!
